

G5's game tops App Store charts

2010-02-04 PRESS RELEASE

The iPhone game The Mystery of the Crystal Portal, developed and published by G5 Entertainment under license from Artogon Corp., has entered Top 50 Paid Games charts in the UK, France, Germany, Austria, and Australia following Apple's promotion of the game in the App Store that started this week.

Vlad Suglobov, CEO, comments: "The Mystery of the Crystal Portal is a stunning game, and it was showing strong and growing sales since it was released on the App Store last days of December 2009. We are glad that Apple recognized the qualities of this great game, and has elected it for the promotion. It will no doubt reflect positively on our results in Q1 2010."

The Mystery of the Crystal Portal is available on the App Store at:

About G5 Entertainment AB (publ)

G5 Entertainment AB is a developer and publisher of high quality downloadable games for mobile, PC, home and portable consoles. G5 started as the world's leading mobile game development studio, developing games based on popular licenses for Electronic Arts, Disney, and THQ. G5 is now developing and publishing its own games that are family-friendly, easy to learn, and targeted at the widest audience of experienced and novice players. G5 owns a number of popular PC and iPhone game franchises like Supermarket Mania, Stand O' Food and Mahjongg Artifacts, and invests in creating new games and bringing company's established franchises to new game platforms. G5's portfolio of games consists of over 20 games across different platforms. G5's games target the growing audience of over 200 million casual game players on PC, over 40 million Apple iPhone devices sold to date, and over 52 million Sony PSP devices sold to date, and will expand further as G5 brings its franchises to new platforms.

G5 also develops and licenses user interface design solution for wireless operators and handset manufacturers – MIDS. MIDS is licensed by Russia's leading wireless operator Vimpel Communications (Beeline).
