

PRESS RELEASE

2009-03-18

Star Vault AB: Beta sign-up and in-game Beta production footage

Today at 4pm Swedish time, the sign-up for Beta has been announced and in-game footage has been released on the Mortal Online web-site www.mortalonline.com

This means that gamers that are interested in participating in the Beta-phases can sign up and get registered for Beta testing. The number of Beta-testers is limited and the selection is made by the Mortal Online team. Depending on the number of gamers that sign-up the number of game-servers available at launch will also be calculated.

The Beta phases are the final testing-phases prior to launch. They are divided into separate stages for testing out different aspects of the game, and will end with the Open Beta. Directly after that the Launch phase will start.

"We are very proud to be able to announce the Beta sign-up today, as it is another milestone in our development of Mortal Online. We have also been working very hard on putting together some in-game footage from during the production, call it a trailer if you like, which will show the gamers around the world some of the features of Mortal Online. For all gamers that are interested in participating in the Beta-testing, please sign up!" - says Henrik Nyström, CEO Star Vault AB

For additional information please contact:

Henrik Nyström, Board member and CEO
Visiting Address:
Stadiongatan 60
217 62 Malmö

Tel: 040-13 89 40
Fax: 040-13 61 51
E-mail: info@starvault.se
Homepage: www.starvault.se

Star Vault is a game developer based in Malmö, Sweden. The company is today developing an online game called Mortal Online, which is a Massively Multiplayer Online Role Playing Game (MMORPG).

www.starvault.se
www.mortalonline.com